

Forecasters Give Rooney Slight Edge Over Bartlett

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP)—Democrat Fred Rooney, a two-term state senator, was rated a slight favorite Monday over Republican Robert Bartlett, a Bethlehem Steel Co. personnel official, in Tuesday's special congressional election in the 15th District.

The winner will fill the unexpired term of Democrat Francis E. Walter, long-time chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities who held the seat from 1933 until his death from Leukemia last May.

Observers within both parties conceded the election will be close and both sides were predicting a victory.

Rooney's rating as a slight favorite was based mainly on his election to the Senate from Northampton County, largest in the four-county northeastern Pennsylvania congressional district, and the district's registration—83,565 Democrats to 56,004 Republicans.

Tending to cloud the picture, however, were (1) the undisputed popularity of Walter with rank-and-file members of both parties and (2) the religion factor. Walter won by almost 1,000 votes in 1960 but President Kennedy lost the district by nearly 7,000 while winning the state.

Rooney, 37, is a Roman Catholic, Bartlett, 31, a Methodist.

Gov. William Scranton came in-person to the district over the weekend to make a personal appeal for Bartlett's election.

Rooney, a real estate salesman, closely aligned himself with Walter in his campaign. He continually told the voters, "the biggest thrill of my life came two years ago when the congressman (Walter) introduced me to Speaker McCormack as 'the man I'm grooming to succeed me.'"

Bartlett, the father of five and a West Point graduate, is an unknown quantity as a vote getter.

But he is credited with masterminding the strategy that ousted Democrats from Bethlehem's City Hall for the first time in 40 years.

Rooney also is a resident of Bethlehem, known as much for its cement as for its steel production. Northampton County, in which Bethlehem is located, is the center of population for the region.

It also has widespread agricultural interests as do Monroe and Pike Counties—where tourism is the main industry. Carbon County, the fourth part of the district, is a depressed area where anthracite once was king.

The issues on which the two men have campaigned are varied. Rooney says he wants federal aid to education, more aid to economically depressed communities and stiffer restrictions on the import of foreign goods. Bartlett has urged reform of federal tax policies, reduction of foreign aid, and an end to what he says is waste in the defense program.

The Democratic National Committee assigned Deputy Chairman Charles Roche, a top-level planner in the Kennedy campaign, to assist Rooney. In addition, Secretary of the Interior Stuart Udall and the secretary of health, education and welfare, Anthony Celebrezze, spoke in his behalf. In scheduling the election for Tuesday, Scranton said it was vital that the seat be filled at the earliest possible moment. Republican leaders reportedly felt they would stand a better chance than in November when the turnout would probably be larger.

The special election is the third this year in the nation. In the other two, Republicans won seats that had been held by Democrats.

Polls open at 8 a.m. and close at 9 p.m. (Eastern Daylight time).

Rail Settlement Possibility Cited

WASHINGTON (AP)—A union official said today he thinks railway labor and management could settle their work-rules dispute in "a matter of weeks" if Congress sent them back to the bargaining table.

Max Malin said that would be the prospect if Congress discards President Kennedy's proposal that the four-year-old controversy be turned over to the Interstate Commerce Commission, and lets both sides wonder what the government would do if they dragged their feet in renewed settlement efforts.

Malin is economic counsel for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

House Approves School Bus Bill

HARRISBURG (AP)—A bill to permit school districts to provide bus transportation for non-public school children on established bus routes was approved by the House and sent to the Senate Monday night.

The vote was 118-81, with 32 Democrats against the bill and 62 Republicans in favor.

The historic measure was added to a bill dealing with the state board of education. It must go back to the Senate for agreement.

In related action, a House committee reported to the floor Senate-passed legislation that would set up in 1965 a referendum to specifically write into the state Constitution a provision permitting tax money to be spent for transportation of pupils attending non-profit private and parochial schools.

PO Picketing Turnout Small

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People picketed the city's main Post Office Monday, but with only about two per cent of the turnout that had been predicted.

Twenty-two pickets marched peacefully bearing signs that were as much of an attack on Negro Rep. Robert Nix, D-Pa., as they were on alleged discrimination in promotions within the Post Office.

Local NAACP leader Cecil Moore was questioned why the small number in contrast to the 100 he predicted would start marching and the 1,000 he said might eventually mass outside the postal building. He replied it was decided to use a disciplined group because "we don't want any force."

College Bill Clears House

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Scranton Administration's community college bill, revised to emphasize technical training, finally cleared the House Monday night.

The House also reran the controversial movie tax repealer for the fourth time and passed it, 106-94.

DeGaulle Disavows N-Test Ban Treaty

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle Monday refused to join the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union in their Moscow accord for a limited ban on atomic tests. And he spurned the idea of an East-West nonaggression pact.

In an eagerly-awaited reply to the Big Three's successful test ban talks last week in Moscow, De Gaulle said France must continue to build its nuclear arsenal or "bid goodbye forever to security and independence."

De Gaulle announced at a news conference that France will call for a meeting "among interested parties" before the end of the year to take up France's own disarmament proposals. Presumably this would be a conference of the four nuclear powers.

While differing sharply with Washington on policy, De Gaulle declared that France's friendship with the United States is historic.

He said the nuclear club should be disbanded altogether, its membership cards thrown into the trash can.

Would Junk All N-Weapons

He countered with the long-standing French contention that all nuclear arms must be junked, along with their delivery systems, and all production halted, to bring all nations down to the non-nuclear level under international supervision.

The French president made his long, rambling statement to about 800 newsmen, officials, and hangers-on at a packed news conference in the Elysee Palace. As usual, he took a series of questions, grouped them, then replied all in one burst.

"The Moscow agreement," said De Gaulle, "has not lifted the atomic menace which weighs on the world. None of the signers had renounced the use of atomic weapons and under these conditions the world situation has not been changed in any way."

"If one day the Americans and the Russians disarm, and come to the destruction and prohibition of nuclear weapons, France will then refrain from procuring them herself, but they don't seem to be at that point yet."

When the question was raised at the beginning of the news conference, the newsmen had asked if France would be willing to forego testing if the United States would give France the know-how for making a hydrogen or fusion bomb. De Gaulle's reply ignored this query.

Praises U. S. Help

De Gaulle went out of his way to praise the United States as the nuclear shield for the Western world, but pointedly recalled that France is furnishing strategic real estate with its geographic position. Allied planners are well aware that an adequate defense of Western Europe requires supply lines across France.

De Gaulle rejected any nonaggression pact between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Warsaw Pact of Soviet bloc states of Eastern Europe. He said France could never consent to a deal by the "Anglo-Saxons" and the Russians "over France's head."

Furthermore, he added, such a treaty would be completely needless as far as France is concerned since France would never strike the first blow against anyone.

The administration has staked considerable prestige on the measure which passed the House last week by a vote of 111-86.

It would provide uniform state civil service for 41,000 of the 78,000 state employees in Pennsylvania, adding coverage to some 17,000 to 20,000 jobs.

Presently there are three forms of civil service in Pennsylvania—legislative, contract and executive.

Test Ban At A Glance

PARIS—President Charles de Gaulle Monday refused to join the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union in a treaty banning nuclear testing in the atmosphere, in outer space or at sea. He declared the Moscow accord between the major nuclear powers had not removed the menace of atomic warfare. De Gaulle said France will call for a meeting of interested parties, presumably the nuclear powers, to take up French proposals for disarmament. He said the nuclear club should be disbanded and all nuclear weapons junked.

Red Chinese, Pravda said, are even borrowing without shame from French anti-test ban propaganda and repeating it world for world.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home are arriving in the Soviet Union within a few days to sign the partial nuclear test ban initiated by the three powers in Moscow last week. Diplomatic sources said they may meet with Premier Khrushchev for further talks at his Black Sea vacation spot.

CAIRO—President Gamel Abdel Nasser says the United Arab Republic will join in the partial nuclear test ban and there are indications Israel may do the same. If both sign the agreement one source of tension in the Middle East would be eased. The two nations have accused each other of trying to develop nuclear weapons.

WASHINGTON—State Department officials said De Gaulle apparently ignored President Kennedy's statement that any possible nonaggression arrangement with the Soviet bloc would require a full consultation between the United States and its allies. They also reminded De Gaulle the United States is cool toward the Soviet proposal for such a non-aggression pact.

MOSCOW—The Soviet newspaper Pravda lumped together France, West Germany and Communist China as working against the partial nuclear test ban. The GENEVA—The chief delegates of the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union arrived in Geneva Monday for the resumption of the 17-nation disarmament talks, suspended while the three powers ironed out the partial test ban in Moscow.

Fleming said civil service was the only subject Scranton talked about at the caucus, squelching rumors that he was urging reconsideration of legislation to eliminate the so-called "insurance gravy train" which was tabled last week by the Senate Insurance Committee.

"I went before the Senate caucus because I had done it in the House," was Scranton's only comment after emerging from the meeting.

The administration has staked considerable prestige on the measure which passed the House last week by a vote of 111-86.

It would provide uniform state civil service for 41,000 of the 78,000 state employees in Pennsylvania, adding coverage to some 17,000 to 20,000 jobs.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Florida's Gov. Farris Bryant testified Monday that "the real issue" in the civil rights controversy is freedom.

Bryant opposed the Kennedy administration's public accommodations bill.

"It would be a tragic mistake if we tried to purchase equality for minorities, and as part of the price gave up freedom for all," he said.

He was the fourth Southern governor to appear before the Senate Commerce Committee in opposition to the bill which would prohibit racial discrimination in stores, restaurants, hotels and other places of public accommodations.

He said he does not question the federal government's power to ban discrimination, but he argued that the businessman should be free to select his customers.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee Monday night added $4 million to the major spending bill in the 1963-64 budget to cover part of a school subsidy increase and give another $1.8 million to retired teachers.

The largest increase, $2.5 million would cover half the $5 million increase made by the House in the subsidy paise, which would be used to increase salaries for active teachers.

The amended bill, now proposing $367 million for the bulk of state government operations, was sent to the floor just before both houses took a dinner recess from the hectic drive to adjourn finally by Wednesday.

Still standing in the way of the final adjournment, however is the continued Democratic refusal to lend Republicans the votes needed to pass $57 million in special grants to private colleges, universities and special schools and projects.

House Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson, R-McKean, said before the Democrats went into an evening caucus to discuss the issue that there might be a break.

But individual Democrats polled by newsmen said the party would maintain its solid front in opposition until the Republicans provide a satisfactory solution to reapportionment of legislative districts.

Johnson issued an ultimatum to the minority Democrats, especially to those from Philadelphia, to vote for the $57 million package or bear the consequences at election time.

"If the Democrats fail to come through, we will make it a big issue in the next gubernatorial campaign and in the Philadelphia mayoralty race," said Johnson.

Dr. Eric A. Walker, president of Pennsylvania State University, appealed for action. His institution would receive $25 million.

Monday was the final day that the bills could be passed if the legislature holds to its scheduled Wednesday adjournment because it would take three days for the bills to go through the Senate.

Other highlights: Community Colleges—The House passed, 194-8, and sent to the Senate Gov. Scranton's plan for establishing a statewide system of community colleges. The bill carries a $500,000 appropriation to get the program moving this year.

TAKING A CLOSE LOOK — Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) leans in to take a close look at papers Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman has in front of him. Harriman Appeals For Treaty Approval

WASHINGTON (AP)—W. Averell Harriman said Monday that Soviet Premier Khrushchev "did not appear overly concerned" about the prospects of Communist China developing a nuclear weapons system.

"He told me it would be a long, long time before they (the Red Chinese) had a nuclear capability of any importance," Harriman said.

Harriman, who is undersecretary of state, told newsmen this after launching the administration's drive for Senate ratification of a treaty which would limit nuclear weapons testing by the United States, the Soviet Union and Great Britain.

Reports coming out of the closed committee session indicated considerable caution and some skepticism but little outright hostility among senators toward the proposed pact.

Harriman told reporters he raised the question of Red China's nuclear progress during the course of the Moscow negotiations which resulted in the initialing of the treaty by the three powers. U.S. military leaders and other officials have said that her first nuclear bomb, she probably is a long way from developing the complicated and costly nuclear weapons and delivery system.

Harriman's remarks came after he underwent three hours of close questioning by senators about the agreement which would ban the exploding of nuclear devices in the atmosphere, in outer space and under water. Underground test still would be permitted.

Accompanying Harriman in his appearance before a closed session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the Senate Armed Services Committee and the House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee was William C. Foster, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Even as they testified French President Charles de Gaulle told a news conference—as expected—that France would not sign the agreement.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, noted that Monday's session was primarily aimed at sounding out Harriman on general terms of the treaty which he initiated in Moscow last week. Formal ratification hearings won't begin until the treaty is signed. Informal sources said Secretary of State Dean Rusk will leave for Moscow Saturday or Sunday for the signing now expected to take place next week.

Senate ratification—by two thirds of the senators voting—is required for U.S. participation in the agreement.

Sens. Fulbright and John O. Pastore, D-R.I., chairman of the Atomic Energy Committee, announced support of the agreement after the Harriman hearings. And Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana called the treaty "an open agreement openly arrived at. There are no gimmicks or any side issues in it."

But most others, such as Sen. Russell Long, D-La., and Bourke Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, said they want to hear a lot more testimony before deciding.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., co-sponsor of a proposed resolution to offer Russia a test ban agreement covering only atmospheric and underwater explosions, was noncommittal. "I'm not sure we have adequate detection devices for coverage of outer space," he said after the morning hearings.

Most senators were agreed that Harriman underwent some close and probing questioning.

Sen. Richard Russell, D-Ga., said Foster and Harriman "made a very spirited defense of the treaty." Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., said Harriman performed brilliantly.

From their comments it appeared senators hit hard on the possible effects of a testban agreement on U.S. military security. This appeared to bear out indications that for many the testimony of military leaders on the possible effects of the treaty will weigh heavily in their decision.

Hope Almost Gone

Earlier in the day Glickov said it did not appear likely that anyone could have remained alive under the rubble this long. He said the bulldozers would go to work Tuesday and in a few days flatten the area.

After that, based on seismological studies, a safer site for a new Skopje would be chosen and the capital would be rebuilt there from the ground up, he vowed.

Rescuers Find Still More Survivors In Skopje Ruins

SKOPJE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Disaster specialists using extremely sensitive equipment Monday found 10 more survivors alive in building rubble nearly four days after an earthquake shattered this ancient Macedonian capital.

In another "miracle of Skopje" a crew of French experts flown here Sunday first pulled out of Yugoslav girl.

Then moving slowly through the heaps of rubble, they picked up voice after voice with their delicate equipment and brought more survivors to the surface. All were Yugoslavs.

The first miracle of Skopje occurred Sunday when a Belgian couple was rescued by Yugoslav coal miners from the North after 55 hours beneath the rubble of the Macedonian Hotel.

Now, 80 hours and more after the earthquake and succeeding tremors knocked down buildings in the city, more were being found alive.

There was no immediate announcement whether Premier Alexander Griciov of Macedonia would carry out his plans to bulldoze the city flat beginning Tuesday, preparatory to rebuilding the capital on a safer site to be determined later.

By late Monday the count of bodies recovered mounted toward 1,000.

Perhaps another 700 were still beneath the rubble, the premier said.

Sewers had cracked open and the stench of human waste and refuse mingled with the odor of bodies decomposing under the scorching sun. Temperatures were in the 90s.

There was the threat of a typhus epidemic.

There was the threat of damaged building falling on those moving in the ruins.

The government ordered evacuation of the city of 270,000 that had become a popular vacation spot for Westerners.

By Monday evening 150,000—55 per cent of the city's population—were gone.

They streamed out by the thousands, on foot and by any vehicle they could use, some pushing carts with a few salvaged possessions piled on them.

A growing task force of bulldozers, tractors and heavy earthmovers stood ready to plow full force into what remained of the city the moment the government gave the word.

Nearly 90 per cent of the city's buildings were either demolished or rendered unusable because of heavy damage.

Earlier in the day Glickov said it did not appear likely that anyone could have remained alive under the rubble this long. He said the bulldozers would go to work Tuesday and in a few days flatten the area.

After that, based on seismological studies, a safer site for a new Skopje would be chosen and the capital would be rebuilt there from the ground up, he vowed.

Record To Post Votes

THE DAILY RECORD will post local district results in today's election on the specially-lighted board in front of the business office tonight as soon as returns are available. Provision has also been made to post the totals in the three other counties in the 15th District as soon as these are available.

Interested citizens are invited to examine the board any time during the return period. However, it is requested that people refrain from calling The Record office for results. This only slows up the reporting process by taking personnel away from tallying the vote. The board is available, and your cooperation in not telephoning will be appreciated.

State News Roundup

PSU's President Pleas For Money

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—President Eric A. Walker of Pennsylvania State University addressed a special plea to the legislature Monday to provide $57 million in appropriations for higher education.

At the time, the legislature was bogged down in a political dispute over the so-called non-preferred appropriations.

Time was running out on this and other pending business. The legislature is scheduled to adjourn Wednesday.

"Postponement of action on the bills will disrupt plans for new programs aimed at the economic growth of the commonwealth," Walker said in a statement.

The bills, which include $25 million for Penn State, already have been defeated twice in the House and according to the rules would be dead for this session.

However, the House could suspend the rules and take up the proposals again, or consider them in a special session later. As of now, the legislature plans final adjournment Wednesday.

"An extensive delay in passage of the appropriations bills means that we must borrow money to operate," Walker said. "Money that should go for education will go instead to pay interest on these loans. We will have no alternative since state appropriations and tuition charges are only source of funds for instructional purposes."

Walker said a summer term enrollment of 7,500 at Penn State is "rapidly depleting" the school's financial reserve.

He also pointed out that Penn State has accepted 1,000 extra students for the upcoming fall term to meet its obligations to the commonwealth.

Scrantonians Seek Strike End

HARRISBURG (AP)—Some 110 Scrantonians pleaded in song Monday for Gov. Scranton to help settle the 17-week strike at Sprague & Hemwood, Inc., a mine drilling equipment manufacturer.

To the tune of "Bill Bailey, Won't You Please Come Home," the demonstrators gathered in the governor's reception room and sang:

"Won't you come home, Bill Scranton."

"Won't you come home," the members and families—including some children—of the striking Local 1971, International Association of Machinists, asked in their song that Scranton lead his influence in settling the walk-out.

Led by Phillip Brady, president of the Scranton Central Labor Union, the petitioners drove to Harrisburg Monday morning in a 38-car motorcade.

Hurt Fatally In Collision

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—One person was injured fatally, and three others were injured Monday when the car in which they were riding was involved in a collision with a truck at the intersections of Route 115 and 315.

The victim was Mrs. Ethel Humphrey, 68, Elliptical City, Md. She died several hours after being admitted to Wilkes-Barre General Hospital. Treated and Discharged at the same hospital were Mrs. Humphrey's husband, Charles, 70, and Raymond Jungers, 70, and his wife Margaret, 71, of Reisterstown, Md.

Police said Jungers was driving toward Wilkes-Barre on Route 115, when his car ran into the side of a truck operated by Theodore Marchuk of Scranton. The truck was traveling towards Scranton on Route 315.

The truck driver said the automobile carrying the four persons failed to stop at a stop sign.

PMF Opposes Weight Hike

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Pennsylvania Motor Federation (PMF) is on record opposed to raising the truck weight limit to 73,280 pounds on state highways.

A bill now before the legislature would increase the present 60,000 pound maximum, making trucks weights limits the same on both Pennsylvania.

state and federal highways in. In a statement released yesterday, Charles E. Pugh, federation general manager, said:

"Business and industry in Pennsylvania have banded together and joined the payloads to add six tons more payload on trucks, and while ignoring the safety aspects of the question and overlooking extensive damage to our vast system of 42,000 miles of state highways."

Pugh said if the legislature should adopt the 36-ton limit, the trucking industry should be more thoroughly policed in the interest of safety. He also suggested an increase in the registration fees of the three-axle trailers to pay "costs of rebuilding the roads damaged by heavier trucks."

Youngsters Of Paradise In Politics

PARADISE TWP. — They can't vote for some years yet, but nine teen and sub-teen-agers of Paradise Twp. have had some valuable experience in practical politics during the political campaign.

As volunteers they have assisted the Republican committee-woman, Mary Fontanella in visiting every house in the township. One car, two bicycles and lots of footwork went into the week-long effort by the youngsters.

On Saturday they were in the whistle-stop cavalcade for Bob Bartlett and met the man whose literature and pictures they had been delivering.

Today, the older group will assist in the playroom and on the playground amusing children while their parents vote. The boys will serve as messengers between the polls in the Paradise Community Center and nearby telephone headquarters.

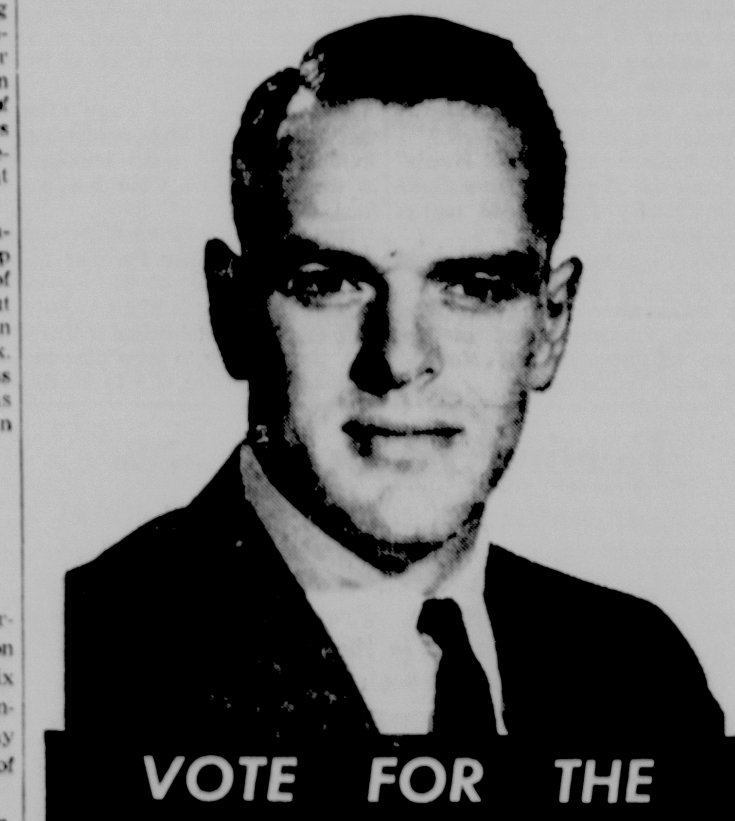

The crew included Johnny Bowman, Lisa Drake, Charles and Cynthia Hilliard, Phyllis and Phillip Koerner, Nancy Leies, David "Butch" Nelson, and Pat Storm.

'Fed Up' Union Member Opens Drive For Bartlett Election

BETHLEHEM—Frank W. Lentz, a longtime steelworker and union member, announced yesterday he is heading a fast-growing "Union Workers for Bartlett" group to work actively for election of what he termed "our 15th District candidate."

Lentz said other members of the executive committee of the group are members of Steelworkers Local 2588 and 2599 and the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. They include Joseph Kish, Albert Hack, John Enstrom and Edwin Bennett.

Lentz said "We are just a group of union men and women who are fed up with the tremendous pressures being exerted upon us to ram down our throats a candidate selected and backed outside the district. We believe Bob Bartlett is the only local candidate with our jobs at heart."

Lentz said the group was "distressed" that Sen. Rooney has seen fit to launch a bitter attack on the steel industry. "We have our gripes," Lentz said, "but we are all smart enough to know that a healthy industry means permanent and better jobs for people who work in industry."

The union committee head said "it just doesn't add up to support a man like Rooney for Congress when we know he will work against the steel industry."

He pointed out that Rooney has "tried to play the tired old game of class warfare" and that today's workers and management alike know they have to work together to fight off foreign competition to preserve the industry.

"I just don't like the idea of having a Congressman whose allegiance is sold out to policies which would bring in foreign steel at the peril of our jobs," he said.

Payrow Hits Smears

Gordon Payrow, chairman of the Family Volunteers for Bartlett Committee, said the "outside smear artists" who have taken over Fred B. Rooney's campaign, "stubbed their toes" by attempting to paint a "Human Events" article endorsing Congressional Candidate Robert G. (Bob) Bartlett in a bid light.

Payrow said, "This group thought they could pull the wool over the eyes of local residents by presenting some mumbo-jumbo about 'far-right, John Birch' etc." He said it "must come as a great surprise to the imported political 'experts' to find in Bartlett a candidate who didn't run from their smears, but simply set the record straight."

Payrow said he has a copy of the April 20, 1967 copy of "Human Events" which carries a full-page, front-page story entitled "The War Against the Immigration Law" by Cong. Francis E. Walter. He said the article described "just what the New Frontier bill introduced this week intends to do."

Payrow said Rooney has pledged support of this bill which Walter's article said "was bent on wrecking our protective immigration system."

In the "Human Events" article Walter said the "wreckers" sent legislation to Congress in 1967 after the Judiciary Committee had closed its meetings in the waning moments of the session. Walters was able to head off demolition of the proven system, he said, "only by persistent effort."

Walter Extolled

Payrow said "I don't think Walter would want his successor to be exerting persistent efforts to close off European immigration, displace American skilled workers and open the floodgates of African immigration as the New Frontier, Rooney-backed bill would do."

Walter had pointed out that the U. S. Communist Party has created 180 organizations to work on destruction of present Walter-sponsored immigration laws.

He said Walter had praised "Human Events" for its role in helping fight subversion in America. He said the "issue" of "Human Events" boils down to the fact that "Walter endorsed Human Events and Human Events has endorsed Bartlett. As Chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities for many years, Walter had access to all kinds of investigative services and would certainly not be praising any publication that he felt was not good for America."

Also Subscribers

Payrow concluded by pointing out that many Democrats are on "Human Events" subscription lists including Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, Senate Democrat Whip Hubert Humphrey and Democrat Senators Clare Engle, Frank Lausche and Thomas Dodd.

Payrow: Rooney Not Family Man

BETHLEHEM—Gordon Payrow, Chairman of the Family Volunteers for Bartlett Committee, said the last pretense that Fred Rooney's advertising was not prepared by an outside firm was shattered when a huge newspaper ad was inserted locally which purported to show Rooney as a family man with children.

"Everyone here knows Rooney is a bachelor," Payrow said. "No local advertising agency would make the mistake of trying to portray Rooney as a married man."

He said the outside agency appeared to be confused about the exact status of its candidate. "It is also common knowledge," Payrow said, "that Bob Bartlett is a family man."

He said further evidence of "outside preparation" of Rooney campaign material was the portrayal of Rooney as a confidante of workers and the so-called "little man." "A local agency would have known that Rooney has for some time been a member of the Saucon Valley Country Club and the Bethlehem Club," Payrow said. He said Bartlett, who started in the shops of the steel firm, "has not been a member of these clubs, having family financial commitments which prevented him from affording the luxury of Country Club living."

Polls Open At 8 A. M. Today For Bartlett-Rooney Runoff

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County voters go to the polls today to help select a successor for the late U. S. Rep. Francis E. Walter, Easton Democrat, who died May 31. Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

It will be the hour of decision for two young men from Bethlehem — State Sen. Fred B. Rooney, 37, and Robert G. Bartlett, 31, a Bethlehem Steel Co. personnel administrator.

The winner will serve the balance of Walter's term which expires in January, 1965. Walter served the 15th Congressional District — Monroe, Carbon, Pike and Northampton Counties — for more than 30 years.

Both sides appear confident of victory with the Democrats counting mostly on their almost 30,000 vote margin in the four counties. Some Democratic spokesmen have been highly critical of Republican Gov. William W. Scranton for ordering a special election, saying his only purpose was to cut into the Democratic margin.

Slugging It Out
Rooney and Bartlett have been slugging it out throughout the four-county area, making numerous visits to all sections of the district.

Rooney's principal arguments are Bartlett's inexperience in politics and the fact that a freshman congressman will be of little use in Washington unless he is a member of the party in power.

Bartlett has charged that Rooney is a hand-picked candidate of U. S. Rep. William Green, Philadelphia Democratic power, and has little or no interest in the voters of this district.

Bartlett is seeking his first elective office, but was instrumental in the 1961 campaign in which Republicans ended a long Democratic stranglehold on Bethlehem city offices. He was campaign manager for Mayor Gordon Payrow.

Bartlett, a West Point graduate, served in Korea and received a master's degree in business administration from Lehigh University before joining Bethlehem Steel. He is married and the father of five young children. Rooney, a bachelor, served in Europe during World War II as a paratrooper. A graduate of the University of Georgia in 1950 with a degree in business administration, he was first elected to the State Senate in 1958 and was reelected last year.

He served as chairman of the Senate Highways Committee and of the Joint State Government Commission's Task Force on Community Colleges. He is also chairman of the Bethlehem Democratic City Committee.

Breakdown Of Voters
Democrats go into the election with 83,565 registered voters to 56,004 Republicans as of the May primary election. It is estimated possibly 1,000 voters may have registered in the district since then.

Northampton County has 31,684 Republicans and 55,709 Democrats; Monroe 7,614 Republicans and 11,025 Democrats; Carbon 12,561 Republicans and 14,520 Democrats, and Pike 4,145 Republicans and 2,311 Democrats.

Yesterday's Registeres Can Vote

STROUDSBURG — Persons who registered as late as 4:30 p.m. yesterday, when the office of the Monroe County Commissioners closed, will be eligible to vote in today's special election—but their names won't appear on the voters' list.

A spokesman for the commissioners, who also act as the county election board, said yesterday that each new registrant is presented with a certificate showing registration.

The certificates must be presented to the various election boards if the persons holding them wish to vote.

Hugh Scott Endorses Bartlett

WASHINGTON — U. S. Sen. Hugh Scott said yesterday that some Democrats are concocting fictitious stories to explain why they may lose Pennsylvania's special congressional election today.

Sen. Scott said, "Democratic National organizations have apparently given up hope of winning the election tomorrow in Pennsylvania's 15th Congressional District to win the vacancy caused by the death of Rep. Francis E. Walter."

"Little else can explain the statement on Sunday by Rep. Michael J. Kirwin, chairman of the Democratic National Congressional Committee, who said that the so-called radical right is taking over in that district. This statement is both untrue and unfair to the distinguished Republican candidate, Robert G. Bartlett."

"The late Rep. Walter carried this district not because he was a Democrat, but because he had a strong personal following. Many of the same people will vote for Bob Bartlett, he is the better candidate."

"I support Bob Bartlett and I urge all persons who want good government to vote for him."

Obituaries

Arthur Kroll, 65, Shawnee

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE — Arthur P. Kroll, 65, of Shawnee-on-Deleware, died at 4:15 a.m. yesterday in Graduate Hospital, Philadelphia. He had been in failing health three months and seriously ill two weeks.

He was born in Germany, the son of Julius and Ottilie Herzke Kroll, and had lived in Shawnee for 16 years, moving here from Tuxedo Park, N. Y., where he was the manager of the Tuxedo Park Nursery.

He was employed by Hughes Printing Co. until illness forced him to quit in June of this year. He was a member of Shawnee Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Grace Heller Kroll, at home; one son, Arthur M. Kroll, Shawnee; six sisters, Miss Joanna Kroll, Squirrel Island, Me.; Mrs. Clyde Rion, Goodlettsville, Tenn.; Miss Elsie Kroll, Miss Margaret Kroll and Mrs. Lydia Tackhiser, all of Middletown, N. Y., and Mrs. Dorothea Fisher, Ashland, and four brothers, Eric Kroll, Goodlettsville; Henry Kroll, Blooming Grove, N.Y.; Conrad Kroll, Goshen, N.Y., and Alfred Kroll, Rhinebeck, N.Y.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in Shawnee Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Wesley W. Crowther will officiate and burial will be in Shawnee Presbyterian Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Lanterman Funeral Home from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Verona Charges:

GOP Will Use High Paid Workers

BETHLEHEM — Gus P. Verona, treasurer of the Northampton County Democratic Committee, yesterday charged that "hundreds of high-paid workers are going to be brought into the 15th Congressional District by Republican political interventionists" in today's special congressional election.

At the same time, State Sen. Fred B. Rooney, the Democratic candidate, charged that "The sordid effort on the part of the Republican candidate to smear the name of a dean man will be bitterly resented by every decent, respectable voter in the 15th District."

Verona said in his statement: "I have perfectly reliable information that the Republican State Chairman, Craig Truax, spent most of last week in Bucks, Delaware and Montgomery Counties rounding up outsiders to work in this election campaign.

$100 For Day

"Not only that, but the reports given to me are that these workers are going to be paid $100 for the day. That is three to four times as much as regular Republican organizations inside the district are paying their own workers," Verona said.

Rooney's statement said: "Although there is no record in Congressman Walter's office of any communication having been sent to Human Events in 1958, there is full and ample evidence that Congressman Walter loathed and despised the radical right exemplified by the John Birch Society and its fellow travelers, the A.C.A. and Human Events just as much as he detested Communist subversion," Rooney said, then went on to say:

"Even if such a letter had been written, the facts are these:

"Different Publication"

"In 1958, Human Events was a totally different kind of publication. It was, then, in essentially anti-Communist newspaper.

"Today, Human Events advocates the virtual abolition of the Federal Government.

"It is against Social Security. It is against decent housing. It is against unemployment compensation.

"It is against medical care for the aging.

"There is, in fact only one thing Human Events is FOR right now—and that is the Republican candidate for Congress in the 15th District."

In a closing statement on the campaign, Rooney said:

"Although this has been a short campaign, it has nevertheless been one of the hardest in the history of our District."

"My opponent and I have traveled up and down this district, carrying our campaign to the people. This is as it should be. This is as it must be in a free election, freely decided."

Kennedy Promises Rooney Effort To Aid Area Mines

BETHLEHEM — President Kennedy has pledged a "forceful effort" to stimulate Pennsylvania's coal shipments overseas and to increase anthracite coal consumption at home by advanced research.

The President's views were expressed in a telegram sent to Senator Fred Rooney. The President said:

"I am pleased to receive your views relative to the coal situation in Pennsylvania. You may be assured this Administration will continue its forceful effort to bring about liberal energy import policies among the Common Market countries.

"I am sure that you are well aware that domestic anthracite production in the first half of 1963 is 10.2 percent greater than the corresponding period in 1962 and that exports are 112 percent greater for the similar period in 1962."

"In addition, this Administration will do everything in its power to encourage new industrial markets for anthracite based coal products."

President Kennedy's telegram was in reply to a request made by Sen. Rooney following an inspection of Carbon County mine operations.

Democrats' Voting Charge Against Bartlett Denied

BETHLEHEM — Russell R. Handwerk, now a resident of Atlanta, Ga., has denied Democratic charges that Robert G. Bartlett, Republican candidate for Congress, failed to vote in the 1960 presidential election.

In a letter to John Straubinger of Bethlehem, Handwerk said that his family and the Bartletts were together on election nights of 1958, 1959, 1960 and 1961.

He continued: "We recall that in 1960 Bob was a block captain. We also remember that Bob stated he and Carol voted separately so

Test Ban Treaty

The agreement by Britain, France and Russia last week to sign a partial nuclear test ban treaty is one of the most important steps toward peace and a healthier world taken since the end of World War II.

The U. S. Senate should ratify the treaty. It is expected to give the necessary two-thirds vote of consent over heavy opposition from some conservative and right-wing senators.

As President Kennedy said in his speech to the nation last week, and as the cartoon next to this editorial points out, banning nuclear tests under water, in the atmosphere and in space does not end the cold war with communism.

It may be the beginning of a new phase of the cold war in which open military conflict and nuclear devastation of both sides of the globe is given up as an active policy by Russian communists. Russian ideologists argued this position in their split with Red China, which advocates nuclear war.

But the cold war weapons of propaganda, subversion, spying and "wars of national liberation" like that in South Viet Nam have not been given up by world communism.

Minimum Security Risk

The proposed ban on nuclear tests under water, in the atmosphere and in space is the closest thing to a foolproof treaty we can ever hope to make with Russia.

While there are certain gaps at the lowest levels of the atmosphere and in the farthest reaches of space, where detection of nuclear weapons tests may be difficult, the scientific equipment now available and working around the world makes this partial test ban nearly cheat-proof.

We have little to lose.

Only a few weeks ago, government officials, including members of the Atomic Energy Commission, said the United States should cut back its production of nuclear weapons because we have more than we safely deploy and stock pile.

President Kennedy and our Pentagon military experts, civilian and military, have assured us again and again that we hold a commanding lead in the nuclear weapons field and quantity.

A freezing of the development of new nuclear weapons can only help the United States if this is true.

We will know immediately when the ban is violated.

And we have much to gain. Rising levels of nuclear fallout, the danger of which is still not precisely known, will be halted.

And the spread of nuclear weapons to countries which are more likely to use them will be slowed down. Russia, the United States and the whole world can only gain time and safety by obstructing the nuclear bomb experiments of Communist China. And the thought of military dictators buying and waving nuclear weapons at each other and at us is not comforting.

The United States, serving its own best interests, has more to gain than to lose by signing the nuclear test ban treaty.

Escape Clause

The unusual escape clause inserted in the nuclear test ban treaty may help Britain, Russia and the United States to win ratification in their own countries, but it weakens the treaty.

The escape clause says: "Each party shall in exercising its national sovereignty have the right to withdraw from the treaty if it decides that extraordinary events . . . have jeopardized the supreme interests of its country."

The clause calls for three month notice by any nation which plans to start nuclear tests again.

It weakens the treaty by giving a more generous escape than most international treaties allow. The United States had earlier asked for formal negotiations and statements of the reasons for breaking the treaty.

But the likelihood of any nation breaking the treaty diminishes as other countries sign the treaty. India and Egypt have said they will join the original three. Many other nations are likely to follow.

The country which breaks the treaty will have to bear the public wrath, adverse opinion and pressure of the rest of the world.

'Wonderful to Have The Tension Relieved'

Harrisburg — Pennsylvania's local school districts are squeezing through by the skin of their educated teeth.

(Of course when you stop to think of the current and now drawing to a close 1963 legislative session—few items of major import have managed to travel any road but the tooth-and-skin route!)

Nevertheless for local school districts a few wheezes of relief are in order as the House passed (only Thursday) bills on teacher pay increases with uppers in state school subsidy payments to local districts head for expected final clearance in the Senate today or tomorrow.

These two bills perhaps keynote fairly well the seven-month 1963 legislative session that has dogged the ornate clifflids of the House and Senate on Capitol Hill.

They illustrate the foggy, befuddled, uncertain and confused atmosphere and activity that for some reason plagued this year's gathering of the legislative braves.

For example, some months ago the teacher-subsidy bills were being hailed by lawmakers as "ultra-progressive steps" in boosting Pennsylvania teacher salary mandates—with the state footing the bill through a new schedule of increased subsidies to school districts.

Many a lawmaker became so overwhelmed by the political hay to be made (so he thought) among his constituents that he issued a happy news release under his name showing the amount each school district in his area would receive under the subsidy increase legislation he was backing. (Curiously the "individual" news releases noted in newspapers throughout the state carried a standard format—with an unquestioned smack of professional political press agency!)

But alas—when this column broke the news that to behold the new schedule of subsidies in most cases would not cover the proposed teacher pay increases, the storm broke from local schoolmen protesting the belatedly-realized inadequate subsidies.

The Legislature took a second look—and finally came up with the current revised teacher pay increase schedule with additional increased state subsidies that will now meet the requirements that should have been met in the first place.

And—once again the round of professional press agency "new releases" has been under way with local lawmakers Joe Jinks proclaiming to his local citizenry the "new" schedule of subsidies school districts will receive as a result of "tireless" (of course) effort.

This then has been the pattern of the school subsidy and teacher pay legislation as it twitches through the final gasps of the 1963 legislative session.

This has been the pattern of legislation, for the most part, during this 1963 session—scrambled, revised, dumped, hauled back, uncertainly rewritten, recalled, mauled or killed.

There was for example the Administration's loudly touted unemployment compensation reform program, introduced in the Legislature with a special message from none other than the Mayor of Capitol Hill himself, Governor William Warren Scranton—only alas, to be subsequently junked at the request of Mr. Scranton because it wasn't ready yet after all; it needed "further study" (which should have been thought of before being introduced in the first place).

And then there is the tax increase program lawmakers whipped through, which wasn't what the Administration asked for in the first place—but which additionally provided the Administration with greater revenue than it had requested!

To paraphrase many an irked rank and file lawmaker: "What a session this has been! Nobody seemed to know what they were doing, what they wanted, how to go about getting it—or what to do when they did get it!"

The Pennsylvania Story

School Bills Slide Through

Off The Record

—By BOB CLARK

Today Monroe County voters will join ballot-counters from Pike, Carbon and Northampton counties in a task that will play a big part in their coming lives.

Registered voters of the four-county area will pick a man to succeed the late Cong. Francis E. (Tad) Walter, a task that requires more than just a glance at the names in the polling booths.

The Republicans are offering Robert G. Bartlett, a 31-year-old Bethlehem resident who zoomed to political prominence on the strength of a campaign electing another man. The Democrats' standard bearer in this special runoff for the 15th Congressional District is State Sen. Fred B. Rooney, a 37-year-old bachelor who is in the midst of his second term as a state senator.

Both candidates have waged a 24-hour a day drive for the right to take Walter's seat in the House of Representatives in Washington, D.C. Both men have gone down to the wire pleading for votes on the other side of the fence. Both also have fired pot shots at everything short of libel.

It has been one of those knock-em-down, drag-em-out affairs. Neither Bartlett nor his Bethlehem foe, Rooney, have let up since both were nominated back in the middle of June.

Oldtimers like to recall that this special election has all the earmarks of the political battles of bygone years where "No punches are pulled and let the chips fall where they may."

On the basis of registered voters Bartlett is definitely the underdog. Rooney, blended with the 30,000 reported majority, has the decided edge if all the voters in the four counties make their way to the polls. But, as one Democrat—a staunch one—said, "Rooney is no Tad Walter and will not get the vote that the late congressman piled up so many times in the past."

There is no doubt Bartlett has made heavy inroads in the Democratic majority—especially in Monroe and Northampton where if Rooney is going to make a big showing he must make good use of his registration bulge.

But the under-current rumblings say that Bartlett will carry Monroe and the father of five will cut into Rooney's holdings in Northampton. That leaves it up to Carbon and Pike, Carbon has been having Democratic problems with the county level not seeing eye to eye with the state and national hierarchy.

It has come to the point that even the hardest of gamblers won't hazard a guess or a bet on the outcome. If this is true Bartlett certainly

The Allen-Scott Report

Deal With Castro

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — President Kennedy is allowing his negotiators to make some astounding concessions to Dictator Fidel Castro in backstage dealings involving Cuban refugees.

In addition to barring anti-Castro raiders from operating from U.S. soil, the State Department has bowed to Castro's demand that he designate 50 per cent of all persons migrating to this country.

Under this secret arrangement, Castro is sending to the U.S. thousands of so-called "refugees" who actually are nationals of other countries, among them Russia, Poland, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Spain and Brazil. Already an estimated 4,000 of these spurious "refugees" have entered this country.

These and other more startling details of the secret dealings with Moscow-puppet Castro were uncovered by a House Judiciary subcommittee headed by Representative Michael Feighan, D-O., in a private scrutiny of the administration's handling of the Cuban refugee program.

In a closed-door grilling of Abba P. Schwartz, head of the State Department's Bureau of Security Affairs, and George Phelan, Chief of the Documentation Bureau, the committee discovered that these secret agreements with Castro were arranged through two channels.

Dealing with Castro—As revealed by Schwartz, talks between Castro and New York attorney James Donovan, who ransomed the Bay of Pigs prisoners, started the flow of refugees by plane and ship.

Later, after Castro demanded a major voice in determining who would be allowed to leave, the 50-50 deal was arranged in a series of State Department communications through the Swiss embassy, which is handling U.S. affairs in Cuba.

"As I understand it," Schwartz told the legislators, "when Donovan was in the docks in Havana during the unloading of the African Pilot, which brought ransom supplies to Cuba, the suggestion was made that other Cuban refugees could come to the U.S."

"Who made the suggestion?" demanded Feighan. "I don't know whether it first came from Castro or Donovan," replied Schwartz. "My information is that it was arranged on the spot."

"Isn't that most irregular for Donovan or Castro to make a decision of this importance for the U.S. government?" asked Feighan.

"The actual arrangements were made by the State Department," explained Schwartz.

"By whom, and under what authority granted by whom to whom?" persisted Feighan. "I do not know," said Schwartz.

"Was Donovan acting as a private citizen or a government representative in his negotiations with Castro?" continued Feighan.

"To my knowledge, he was acting as a private citizen," said Schwartz.

The 50-50 Deal—Representative Feighan then pressed Schwartz closely on details of the secret arrangement with Castro.

"Did Castro or any of his spokesmen designate the people to be exchanged?" asked Feighan. "Was there a 50-50 deal?"

"I would like to explain, since the arrangement with Castro was somewhat involved," said Schwartz. "Castro insisted that on each ship bringing out refugees he was to designate 50 per cent of the capacity."

"Would you explain that again?" asked Representative Richard Poff, R-Va. "That sounds incredible."

"In other words," explained Schwartz, "if we had a ship that held 700 people, 50 per cent were persons that we designated. The other 50 per cent were Cuban nationals and others whom Castro designated."

"Who specifically made those arrangements?" Feighan again asked.

"That was arranged through the Swiss embassy in Washington or by cable to Bern and then to Havana," replied Schwartz.

George Phelan, Documentation Bureau chief, disclosed under questioning that others—besides Cuban nationals and U.S. citizens—were allowed to enter the U.S.

"Have any individuals been admitted under these exchanges who were not native-born Cubans or U.S. nationals?" Feighan asked him. "The answer is yes," replied Phelan.

"How many?" "The percentage of other nationalities is estimated at about one percent of the total number of Cuban refugees," said Phelan. "That would be one per cent of 479,000."

"That is more than 4,000; is that correct?" said Feighan. "That is about right, but I don't have the exact number," replied Phelan.

"Can you supply us with the exact figure and the country of origin for each of these persons?" asked Feighan.

"I will try to make arrangements for you to receive this information," agreed Phelan. The subcommittee is still waiting for this significant information.

Meanwhile, the probes have learned from other official sources that "hundreds" of these "refugees" originated in Iron Curtain countries. These "refugees" were purposely sent to Cuba to infiltrate into the U.S.

A number are Spanish who fought in that country's bloody civil war and fled to Russia when it ended.

The Great Initialing

Washington — A young woman with a name that should be banned in the air, in outer space, and under water, consulted me today about the test ban treaty. She inquired why the representatives of the United States, Britain, and the Soviet Union had only initialed the draft of the treaty, not signed their full names to it.

"You are one to talk!" I exclaimed. "If I had a name like Ymelda I would never use anything but my initials!"

Ymelda (pronounced as written) said she thought W. Averell Harriman, Lord Hailsham, and Andrei A. Gromyko had acquitted themselves so distinctively in the Moscow negotiations that they should be permitted to write more than their initials. She said that if the American conferees wrote only "WAH," people might think he had burst into a wall.

"The Russian negotiator is exposing himself to even more misapprehension," I said. "People might see his initials on the treaty to ban nuclear testing in the air, in outer space, and under water, and jeer that they were written by a 'Bad AAG'."

"All right, smartie," said Ymelda scornfully. "See what you can do with the initials of Lord Hailsham!"

I wasted three or four hours trying to make an acronym out of the British conferee. It was hard to even get started because Hailsham's first name isn't really Lord, like Earl Warren, Baron Collier, and Viscount Motors. His Ludship's square moniker is Quintin McGarel Hogg. I once heard of a dame named Ima Hogg, but I didn't think Ymelda would be titillated if I wove it into our discussion on test treaty initialing.

"I can't think of an acronym for Lord Hailsham," I finally admitted. "But maybe he won't be a lord much longer. He wants to de-lord himself and run for the House of Commons."

"Why doesn't he just renounce the title?" asked Ymelda.

"It's hard to renounce a hereditary title in England," I replied. "To do it you've practically got to chant outside the Queen's window at Buckingham Palace." I don't wanna be a lord, no more, no more . . . It's harder if you're a marquess.

People who pronounce it in the French way may think you don't want to be the front of a theater."

Ymelda said she supposed it wouldn't be too hard to initial a test ban in the air, and in outer space, but how could they do it under water.

"They've got a pen that does that," I said.

"Name me one person you ever saw writing under water!" challenged Ymelda. "I bet even Honest Abe, the Initial Splitter, has never done it."

Say—! Why don't you call the State Department and ask why Harriman, Hailsham and Gromyko weren't allowed to write anything but their initials?"

I got State on the phone and said to Ben Thirkield, knowledgeable Press Officer:

"Why weren't those poor guys permitted to write their full names?"

"That is a very good question," said Mr. Thirkield. "The State Department would be pleased if you'd just leave it as a question."

By the time this informative conversation was over, Ymelda had read further details of the Moscow announcement.

"It says," she said, "that after the initialing, the three negotiators and the press exchanged some banter. How do you exchange some banter?"

"You go into a department store," I said. "And say, 'I want to exchange some banter.'"

Ymelda asked, "Do they initial anything other than treaty drafts?"

"Confessions," I replied. "They make you initial each page if you confess to being an osteopath and hiring young girls to cane old boys."

"Don't lawyers initial their briefs?" persisted Ymelda.

"Just their briefs," I said. "Not their long underwear."

About Town

Forced Fun:

An engineer got a job in a remote mining camp. On his first day off, he approached the foreman and said: "Say, what do you guys do around here for amusement?" The foreman replied: "Well, all of us usually go over to the mess shack and watch Sam, the cook, drink a gallon of whiskey, gasoline, and red pepper juice. Funniest thing you ever saw. Why don't you come along?" The engineer was obviously shocked. "No thanks," he said. "I don't go in for that kind of amusement."

"Well," answered the foreman, "I sure wish you'd come along. We really need six men for this thing." "Why is that?" asked the engineer. "You see, some of the boys have to hold Sam. He don't go in for that kind of amusement either."

Since a group of lions is called a pride, we have culled the following from the Gerald Kloss column covering his ideas of collective nouns for people, as follows:

- A link of chain smokers.
- A fin of card sharks.
- A snack of icebox raiders.
- A burp of babies.
- A crop of farmers.
- A ham of actors.
- An octave of pianists.
- A tree of kite flyers.
- A clatter of typists.
- An ignore of salesgirls.
- A palette of artists.
- A twang of guitarists.
- A babble of women.
- A klatsch of coffee drinkers.
- A squabble of children.
- A hatch of chicken farmers.
- A grapple of wrestlers.
- A drill of dentists.
- A deal of used car salesmen.
- Memram-Webster, take 'em away!

Two strangers met on a street in Poland and admired a parked car. One said: "What a beauty, the Russians sure know how to make a beautiful car."

The other man replied: "That's not a Russian car. Don't you know an American car when you see one?"

The first man replied: "Certainly, but I don't know you."

Kennedy's Naval Warfare To Be Shown At Sherman

STROUDSBURG — "PT 109," the story of President Kennedy's experiences as a Navy lieutenant junior grade during World War II, opens Wednesday at the Sherman Theater here.

Based on the book by Robert J. Donovan, Washington newspaperman, it stars Cliff Robertson as Lt. Kennedy. Co-stars are Ty Hardin, James Gregory, Robert Culp and Grant Williams.

On an early August morning in 1943, a Japanese destroyer rammed and sunk an American PT boat in the Solomon Islands, leaving its crew for dead in a sea covered with flaming fuel.

For 30 hours, John F. Kennedy was in the water, helping survivors ashore and trying to find aid.

The motion picture is in technicolor and percussion. The picture was produced by Bryan Foy and directed by Leslie H. Martinson from a screenplay by Richard L. Breen.

War I Vets, Auxiliary Aid VA

STROUDSBURG — Pocono Memorial Barracks 2230, Veterans of World War I, and its auxiliary were among organizations participating in the annual carnival at the Wilkes-Barre Veterans Hospital.

President Georgia Albertson of the auxiliary was assisted by Mrs. Sadie Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Geiger, Lydia Christensen, Melinda Havlick, Mary Ziegenfuss, Catheryn Fable and Frances Ransberger, the VA Hospital representative.

Howard and Mildred Doll of the Veterans Affairs office in Monroe County attended representing the United Veterans, who donated prizes.

Birth Of Henry Ford Celebrated

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — A small, fragile vehicle that resembles a box on bicycle wheels sits in a museum in Greenfield Village here, and Tuesday the centennial of its builder's birth will be celebrated.

He was Henry Ford, a man who played the leading role in putting the world on wheels.

The vehicle is the first automobile completed by Ford. It was finished in 1896. It still runs.

From it grew the Ford Motor Co., industrial empire, symbolized by the nearby sprawling factory complex which makes up Ford's huge Rouge plant.

Ford, who developed a mass-produced automobile and then sold it at a price the average person could afford, was born on a farm in what is now this city of 112,007, on July 30, 1863.

He died on April 7, 1947, when he was nearly 84, after a controversial lifetime which saw him:

Complete his first gasoline engine in 1893; organize the Ford Motor Co. in 1903; sell more than 15 million Model T's from 1903 to 1927; introduce the $5-a-day wage in 1914; buy complete control of his company from other stockholders in 1919; develop the V8 engine in 1932, and mass-produce great quantities of bombers during World War II.

Leonard Kranendonk

Waring Soloist To Give Concert

MOUNT POCONO — Leonard Kranendonk, member of Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians for 26 years, will be the featured soloist at the annual concert sponsored by the Mount Pocono Methodist Church on Friday night at 8:30.

Born in Rotterdam, Holland, Kranendonk came to this country with his parents, studied music at the Wisconsin College of Music in Milwaukee for four years and continued to study voice for ten years. With the Pennsylvanians he has sung in every major city in the United States and Canada and traveled half a million miles on concert tours.

At home in Monroe County, he has won a place of deep affection through his solos in local churches. He sings sacred music best because he likes it best, but his ability to "project" a classic or a ballad have endeared him to audiences.

Featured with Kranendonk will be Mitchell Andrews, pianist; and Miss Elaine Weldon, violinist.

No tickets will be sold but all who enjoy good music are invited.

Art Show In Slate Belt

BANGOR — An art show, presented by the Pocono Mountain Art Group, will be held on Friday and Saturday, Aug. 2 and 3, at the Bangor-Pen Argyl Shopping Center, as part of the first anniversary celebration of the center.

There will be free gifts, music and refreshments for those who attend.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Just Between — — Warner
Today is election day, and the forecast is for a light vote with little general interest — and that's one forecast I hope is dead wrong. It is inconceivable to me that anybody could be apathetic about politics. And not, necessarily, because of any high-minded attention to civic duty, the responsibility of citizenship, or concern about the world our children and grandchildren will have to live in.

All of those factors are important, as you've all been told often enough. But quite apart from that, it might be so dull not to care who wins, like not caring whether or not you'll get married and have children, or what job you have as long as you have enough money to live on, or not caring whether you live or die.

Not everybody can care about everything, I know. I feel sorry for people who don't like sea food or avocados, who don't care who wins the World Series or the Battle of the Boroughs, who don't like to play golf or bridge. But they may be crazy about meat loaf, follow the horses, and love to scuba dive, and feel sorry for me because I don't.

The reason we can feel sorry for each other is because any human activity in which you have no interest limits by so much your capacity for personal enjoyment and sharing the enthusiasm with other human beings. But in matters of food and recreation, tastes differ, and choice is optional. You can always find somebody who likes the things you do, to exchange recipes with or window shop or hunt antiques.

But in certain basic things—like the way you feel about your work, your religion and your politics—your interest should be automatic and intense. An independent voter I can understand but never a non-partisan or no-voter. I don't go to the polls as a public duty, but as an enthusiastic and whole-hearted support of "my" candidate, firmly convinced that everybody who doesn't do likewise is obviously misguided, or confused about the issues.

He doesn't always win, and this makes for a very unhappy day after the election for me, deep in the depressed conviction that the future looks very dim indeed. In spite of that risk, I'd much rather feel that I was a member of a team, win or lose, than not even know there was a game going on.

Built Like A Village Girl? Stumpy Legs? Liz Taylor?

By Ramond E. Palmer

London (AP) — Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor hope to marry soon although the British actor doesn't find her "particularly attractive physically." Burton's younger brother said Sunday.

Graham Jenkins, youngest of Burton's six brothers, said he understood Burton will settle $1,400,000 on his estranged wife, Sybil, and still regards her so highly he would solve his problem by having two wives if the law would let him.

There have been numerous reports that the co-stars of the multi-million dollar movie "Cleopatra" opening in London this week planned to wed. The real eye-opener was Burton's reported description of the glamor girl — built like a Welsh village girl with stumpy legs and a chest that "isn't anything extraordinary."

Burton, 37, has been married for 13 years to ash-blond former actress, Sybil, by whom he has two small daughters: Kate, 6, and Jessica, 3.

Miss Taylor, 31, has been married four times. Her present husband, from whom she is estranged, is American singer Eddie Fisher. She has two sons: Michael, 10, and Christopher, 9, by her second marriage to British actor Michael Wilding, and a daughter, Elizabeth, 5, by her third marriage to the late Mike Todd. Her first marriage was to Conrad Nicholas Hilton, son of the American hotel magnate.

Burton's real name is Richard Jenkins. He assumed the surname Burton as a tribute to Philip Burton, a schoolmaster who encouraged him to take dramatic training.

Burton and Miss Taylor are currently living in adjoining penthouse suites at London's Dorchester Hotel.

Graham Jenkins wrote in Sunday's "News of the World":

"It did not seem possible that so fundamentally stable a personality as Richard with his background of strict Welsh nonconformity and his enormous regard, even reverence, for what is usual, held to be right and proper,

St. Laurent In Classic Opulence

By Lucie Noel
AP Fashion Writer

PARIS (AP) — Yves Saint-Laurent's fall and winter fashion showing Monday mirrored the new Europe — opulent prosperity in an old tradition.

Saint-Laurent called his new line the "good mood" and his creations reflected contemporary simplicity underscored with dramatic accessories.

Saint-Laurent — whose clientele represents perhaps the wealthiest stratum of the fashion-conscious world — produced no great surprises. Kneecaps were modestly covered by hemlines. There were no drastic changes.

His creations featured a classic and beautifully handled silhouette that stressed the evolved peasant smock turned into a dress and jumper dress for evening wear. This creation was in white satin with velvet sleeves and for day wear, ribbed velvet overblouses with jersey sleeves.

There were dramatic accessories.

Beautiful pre-Colombian jewelry, shown in pendants on gold link chains, featured agate or jet or Tyrolean cut stone cabochons inlaid on hammered gold.

The gold chain appeared again on Louis XI velvet berets. King-size baroque pearls were shown on gold pendants and fall from the same size necklaces.

Saint-Laurent's daytime picture was told in a group of beautiful squared tops in light tweeds on classic lines.

Under these were worn all his signature ideas—the pea jackets of every length, the tunic and the jumper dress, which steps out for winter in luxury velvets and silks and often was treated to skintight, glove fitted jet embroidered or glittering chiffon sleeves.

"Baby Beatniks" for the young intelligencia who don't care for ruffles, have been designed by Helen Lee—above, a screen-printed bordered cotton in autumn colors of rust, brown and beige, inspired by the old comic strip, Ella Cinders. The high waist is marked by woven border band. The three-quarter length sleeves are straight, narrow and unadorned as is the collarless high round neckline.

At the left, a charcoal grey double orlon knit dress is side trimmed with a brass buttoned band of red and white. Matching red and white bands also edge the three quarter length sleeves.

I had forgotten what great fun an auction sale can be until the other evening when one was held in my neighborhood, right under my nose. The prospect of attending seemed pleasant, since it was cooler out of doors than in, and since it was easy enough to trip across the street with a lawn chair. Esther Ainspar, of our Wyckoff Cosmetic department, who lives just down the street, joined me, and between us we had enough things (chairs, a footstool for my daughter to sit upon, shrugs, etc.) to evoke the quip that we'd need a Wyckoff truck to get home.

I hadn't remembered that auction sales were so important a part of our country living . . . but EVERYONE was there. What's more, EVERYONE brought a chair, or a cushion, or a newspaper, to perch upon, and a goodly number of the crowd suddenly sprang to life and headed for the street when the Janie appeared, only to return munching upon ice cream cones. One mother had come prepared for just such an event. When her little fellow began to howl for a cone, she produced a strap which she wig-wagged at him in businesslike fashion, and he subsided. This worked like a charm everytime the youngster showed signs of becoming weary.

Wayne Posten's daughter, Maude, was the auctioneer, and was relieved now and then by her Dad who has been quit ill, is looking fit once again, and is still quite a showman. Young Maude is pretty much of a showman too! An attractive girl with long blonde curls and a gift of gab that equals any I have ever heard, she alternates between entertaining the crowd and scolding them for pikerish, sluggish bidding. It was the best show I've seen in ages.

The sale itself was full of surprises. I never stop marveling at the things people buy at auction, and the prices they pay. They will clam up and stubbornly refuse to pay more than a few cents for an old dish, a piece of solid wood furniture, or a copper kettle that is worth dollars, and will roar out bids at a furious pace on such items as fabric remnants, incompleated embroidery, and used sheets. Foam rubber by the piece, for instance, is quite expensive when purchased in the store . . . yet the auctioneer coaxed and wheedled for a 25c bid on one large piece that could be cut into almost any size for seat or cushion. And it was no trouble at all to sell old jars for twice or triple that much.

Auction sales, of course, are a gamble. One can never be sure that hidden somewhere in the bottom of a box, containing a potpourri of this and that, there will not be a ring, valued at $50.00, or even a $20.00 bill. These things do happen occasionally! Likewise, one cannot be sure there aren't cracks in the crockery, moths in the dresser drawers, leaks in the double boiler, and broken wires in the extension cords. It may be this very element of "let's see if we can lick the wheel of fortune" that makes an auction good entertainment.

But for year 'round buying . . . I naturally choose a department store like Wyckoff's, where I know how much yard goods is in each piece I buy and its value per yard; where I know the china will be replaced, if sold with chips; where I am sure an appliance will work and will be serviced as needed. Auctions are wonderful . . . and some of one's buys are, too! In the long run, however, a shopping tour of Wyckoff's is probably just as economical and, in its way, just as entertaining.

Beatnik Look For Little Eggheads

New York — In a season when her mother is going to lean heavily on the lightly-fitted, sportive look, her diminutive daughter can follow fashion trends in her own way in what the designer Helen Lee has called her "Baby Beatnik" look in sizes 2 to 14.

Straight lines, arty colors, and the kind of wiggly stripes and offbeat patterns that sneer at sissy rosebuds and goody prettiness are for the little girl without a curl. The colors are taken from the comic strip "Ella Cinders" in tarnished brass, spinach green and institutional blue.

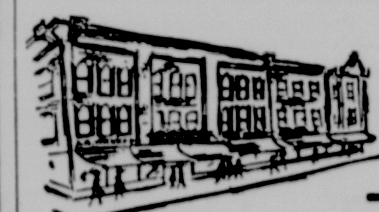

Waistlines are everywhere except in the middle. Some so low that only three inches of lace show, others right up under the arms, others entirely missing. The Beatnik fabrics are in washable wools with giant prints from Scandinavia, wide wale corduroy and cotton knit. Beatnik party dresses have black or colored velvet tops with vivis pink and sapphire blue printed skirts.

An Open Message To The Republican Candidate:—

"Thou Shalt Not Bear False Witness."

SportScope

by KEN O'BRIEN
Daily Record Sports Editor

OPEN LETTER TO STROUDSBURG L. L. ALL STARS:

It was a tough break, fellas, losing by such a close margin, 2-1, for the Little League District 20 championship. An to lose on a squeeze bunt, at that! That's rough. But I can't honestly say I feel sorry for you. I'm sorry you lost, but that's all.

There are many lessons to be learned from playing Little League baseball. As the years roll by, you will find many heartbreaks in life. You kids already have endured one of them.

You lost a ball game on a squeeze bunt and a questionable decision. You must abide by that decision, however. In later years, boys, you will vote for men who also will make questionable decisions—in your opinion.

This is politics, this is baseball, and this is life. Today, perhaps, you boys are still a bit heartbroken. Well, go cry in your sodas and feel sorry for yourselves, if you want to. But you get absolutely no sympathy from me. I'm simply too proud of you boys to have any room left for sympathy. I think you kids are the greatest. And I'm sure you mothers and fathers have even greater superlatives than that for your play on the field.

But it isn't only your parents or myself who are so proud of you—it's also so many of the local gentry who followed you boys through this Little League tournament who also suddenly became proud of you because of the way you performed on the field in those four playoff games.

You didn't let anybody down. You boys are truly the Pride of the Poconos of 1963—and we won't let you forget it.

In four games, your team allowed but two earned runs to be scored against you. So, take a bow, pitchers Ed Strunk and John Heller. Both you boys hurled the distance in the two appearances you made. Pretty nice work.

But you guys also had the hitters and the fielders behind you to help your cause along. So let's list the "supporting cast," too: They are: Mark Williams, Marty Phillips, Bob Baylor, Tim Walsh, Terry Baird, Dave (Corky) Crane, Steve Gordon, John McAllister, Mike Phillips, Al Hopkins, Jim Meissner and Danny Cortright.

Your manager (Bill Miller) and your coach (Bill Donaldson) also rightfully deserve bows. Despite the difference in age between you and them, those fellows felt more pressure than all of you put together. But then, they've had a bit more experience in life than you boys have had. Their feelings, then, should be forgiven.

I remember—and never will forget—last Saturday afternoon when I accompanied our staff photographer, Rod MacLeod, to the Stroudsburg Little League field only a few hours away from game time at Pennridge. You boys were slightly annoyed at the fuss, it seemed. You had good reason, too. You did not particularly want to be bothered to pose for a picture for your daily newspaper. You were more interested in wondering if you still had time to grab a soda before you left.

Pressure? You kids don't know the meaning of the term—and I hope you continue on through life the same way. It should help you on the road to success. And, after all, that's what Little League is aimed at, anyway.

RANDOM NOTES: Ted Dailey, assistant football coach at Syracuse University, blew into the Poconos the other day and informed local sports fans that Bill Schoonover, former Stroud Union High School grid great, "should be eligible to play football this season."

Bill made up credits needed during summer school at S. U. Tickets for the Philadelphia Eagles-Pittsburgh Steelers exhibition game Aug. 16 in Bethlehem's Liberty High School Stadium are still available in the Stroudsburgs. They may be obtained from either Marty Baldwin at Olympic Reconditioning, East Stroudsburg, or Lim's Sports Shop, Stroudsburg. Game time is 8 p. m. Proceeds will go toward the United Appeal Fund of Bethlehem.

Hank Harris, sturdy guard on East Stroudsburg High School's football team last year, is employed this summer at Kittingy Beach as a lifeguard.

Witold Tillwick, owner of Saylor's Lake, is likely to run into stumbling blocks with his proposal of allowing anglers to fish at the lake under a flat $5 membership fee. They would need no licenses, but although the fishermen are on his side the state is not likely to agree to his proposal. Tillwick is only one of many sportsmen against the increased hike in fishing licenses.

Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays smashed the winning home run for the second straight game Monday, leading the San Francisco Giants to their eighth straight victory, 5-4 over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

After Pittsburgh grabbed a 3-0 advantage in the top of the second, the Giants narrowed the count with one run in the bottom of the inning and another in the third on Chuck Hiller's homer.

Earl Francis started for the Pirates but jammed his right thumb while batting in the second inning and gave way to Vernon Law, who served the homer pitch to Mays and took the loss. Harvey Kuenn's single with one out and a two-out walk to Willie McCovey preceded the deciding shot over Candlestick Park's left field fence.

Palmer Pushes $100,000 After Western Win

CHICAGO (AP)—Leading money winner Arnold Palmer started fast and hiked his season earnings near the $100,000 mark Monday by winning by one stroke over U.S. Open champ Julius Boros in a three-man 18-hole playoff for the $11,000 top prize in the Western Open Golf Tourney.

Masters and PGA champ Jack Nicklaus finished three strokes behind Palmer.

A fine short approach game gave Palmer a three-stroke advantage at the nine-hole turn and his closing 1-under-par 70 barely shaded Boros, who staged a furious but vain rally on the final nine to finish with a par 71. Nicklaus, finishing with bogeys on the final two holes, posted a 73.

Pressured Showdown

This pressured showdown among golf's top three money winners came after they ended regular play Sunday deadlocked at four-under-par 280. Nicklaus has earned $79,500 and Boros $69,900 for the year.

Palmer now has won six tourneys this year for official earnings of $36,955. Boros and Nicklaus, by previous agreement, split the second and third money and earned $4,450 each.

Palmer seemingly had the Western playoff wrapped up after 10 holes when he stood four-under-par, while Nicklaus was even and Boros one over.

However, Boros turned on the pressure and bagged birdies on three of the next four holes, while Palmer seemed to wilt.

Palmer's 27-year-old right-hander from East Springfield, Pa., struck out two and walked two. He grew stronger as the game progressed, giving up only two singles in the last four innings.

Al Downing was the Yankee starter and loser. The rookie southpaw lasted seven innings, gave up all the A's runs and seven of their eight hits and was charged with his third loss. He has won seven.

Wickersham and Edwards; Downing, Bridges (8) and Howard. W — Wickersham 8-8, L—Downing 6-3.

Home runs — Causey (7), Siebern (11).

The Milwaukee Braves have scheduled 17 exhibition games for their new spring training base at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Palmer missed a four-footer for a bogey 5 on the 13th and led the U.S. Open champ by only one stroke after the 14th.

Boros moved into a tie with Palmer on the 464-yard 15th when Arnie three-putted for a bogey 5 and Boros salvaged a par by sinking a six-footer.

As it turned out, Palmer backed into his second Western Open title.

Despite a bogey 4 on the 206-yard 17th, Palmer moved back into a one stroke lead as Boros staggered to a double bogey 5, missing his third putt from 18 inches. On the same hole, Nick-laus three-putted from 10 feet for his fourth bogey of the day.

On the climactic 18th hole—a par 5,506-yard test—Boros missed a five-foot birdie putt by inches. That was the contest, as Palmer also came up with a par 5, two-putting from seven feet, to clinch the top money.

The Bartletts Thank You...

Permit me to take this means of saying "THANK YOU" to the thousands of good people in Carbon, Monroe, Pike and Northampton Counties whom I have been privileged to meet in this campaign. In coffee hours, in small gatherings, in the quiet of many homes, at big rallies, and "person to person" meetings at shopping centers, factories, and businesses in every nook and corner of our District—your reception and hospitality have been exceedingly gracious.

In this long and hard campaign, my wife Carol and our young family have been close to my side. For them—and myself—"THANK YOU."

It has been a sobering and wonderful experience to have been made welcome in so many places. We shall never forget it.

Five-Township Area Awaits 46th G-D-S Community Fair

NEWFOUNDLAND — With August just around the next corner, the folks in the five-township area including Greene, Dreher, Sterling, Lehigh and Palmyra Townships are thinking about the 46th annual Greene-Dreher - Sterling Community Fair.

The "best of the old" and many new features will highlight the fair, scheduled to open on the fairgrounds on August 28 for a four-day stand.

One of the oldest of the community fairs, the G-D-S Fair will open at 10 a.m. on August 28 with the registration of exhibits, which will continue until 7 p.m. The Southern Wayne High School of the Walenpaupack Jointure will present its wind ensemble under the direction of John Strupewski, during the evening. A new feature of the fair, a rifle and pistol shoot, will begin at 8 p.m.

Thursday's events will get under away at 9 a.m. with the judging of exhibits until 1 p.m., after which time the exhibits will be open to the public. At 1:30 p.m., the dairy show and judging will take place, and the midway will be open all afternoon and evening. The Carlises will be presented from the Grand Ole Opry Show during the evening.

4-H Show
At 9 a.m. on Friday, the 4-2 Horse Show will begin. The main horse show—one of the big features of the fair, will run from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. Payment of premiums will take place from 1 to 3 p.m. The midway will be open during the afternoon and evening, and an old-fashioned square dance, with music by the Trail Riders, will take place at night. Trap shooting is also a new feature scheduled for 8 p.m.

Saturday is the big day of the fair. A special dinner for Octogenarians and Golden Wedding Couples will take place at 12:30 p.m. At 1:30, the "Jellybean" racers — Quartermidgets, will whiz out for a thrilling performance. At 1:30 p.m., George Geiges, Jr., Pennsylvania State Pistol Champion, will give an exhibition, followed at 2 p.m. by an open shoot. The Junior Citizen Contest will begin at 3:30 p.m., followed at 4 by the Baby Parade. Supper will be served in the school cafeteria at 4 p.m. There will be special entertainment, to be announced, during the evening, winding up the 46th fair.

Officers of the Fair Association include Carroll Fetherman, president; Clayton Northup, vice president; Robert Staph, secretary; William Evans, assistant secretary; Claude Smith, treasurer; Leon Schelbert and the Rev. Larry Lindemuth, cashiers.

Arabs Order Visas

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The United Arab Republic will reintroduce visas for Jordanian, Syrian, Iraqi and Saudi Arabian nationals visiting Egypt, it was disclosed in Amman. Previously Arab League member states could enter the U.A.R. without visas.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Tuesday, July 30, 1963
For your own edification, and that of others, bring to light one of your inner talents and capabilities. This day needs pep, comph, for which it will pay handsomely.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — The glitter and glamour may all around you but penetrating eyes, knowledge and discernment will reveal the real from the false without much difficulty. Your crafts and skills encouraged. Take your charin.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Avoid the devious in all things. Stress your innate forthrightness. Steer clear, too, of useless, distracting arguments or the use of force — none of which can advance your cause. Negotiate, arbitrate.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — An average day, yet there will be some fresh news for you. Success offered; some hidden, some fairly clear. Listen and look carefully. Stars promise harmony in relationships.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Do not wait too long before beginning projects which take time and energy or you will become tense, irritable, could even make needless mistakes. Patch up, mediate, reconcile where necessary.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Small favors can be discreetly bestowed in channels that serve you well. Small gains will come your way soon. Don't neglect details that seem unimportant; the up-lease ends.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Four senses should be keen now but you could slip up here and there if overconfident, impetuous, incautious. Forewarned is forearmed.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — If you are careful to avoid a tendency toward recklessness, you should have a constructive, satisfying day. Seemingly minor tasks may become more involved as you go along, so take them calmly from the start.

November 24 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — With Jupiter's favorable aspect, you will have more than a few good opportunities to show your dexterity and enterprise. How you may play the game will count heavily.

December 24 to January 23 (Capricorn) — Avoid tendencies toward uneasiness, undue fears, too much introspection. When you know the means for success, don't take unknown side roads. Emphasize soundness, good judgment.

January 24 to February 23 (Aquarius) — Influences indicate action and a measure of accomplishment, but not without effort. A stout heart encourages many beyond its knowledge. Choose words carefully.

February 24 to March 23 (Pisces) — You could spend this day drifting, or keep it well in the groove of attainment and better feeling all around. Which shall it be? There is always a penalty for time and talent-wasting.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME
You BORN TODAY have the faculty of seeing quickly both trends and reactions to them, and in this position you could profitably by acting astutely and conscientiously for the general good. If you daily, you may change your mind and begin to see things differently. However, never act until checking for all the facts and attached circumstances. This is a sign of tremendous ability — one you get going and keep purpose and intent clear. You have magnetism to help you over the hurdles, too. Often a Leo smile wins the day; it may be followed by a witty, sly remark, too. Non a proud, carry yourself well; could be an athlete, charmer, dreamer just about as you will achieve. The well-trained Leo's laughs at obstacles, actually delights in their challenge. Control the emotions, sympathies. Always aim high. Your potentials are endless. Playhouse Apprentices To Perform MOUNTAINHOME — On Thursday, Aug. 8, Mrs. Rowena Stevens, manager-producer of Pocono Playhouse, will present the second special young people's show given by student apprentices of the Playhouse, under the direction of Prof. Frank Davidson.

The play, in form of a musical, will be "Hansel and Gretel," in a new and modern form, based on the original, favorite fairytale of both old and young.

The musical is scheduled for one day only, with two performances, 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. All seats $1.25. All camp groups and other young people in the area are invited to attend either of the performances, of this great fun-show.

Included in the cast will be Candy Kohn, Peter Strauss, Shelby Freedman, Rita Gorin, Elise Young, Larry Miller, Deborah Donnelly, Gerard Siegal, Marsha Meyers, Marlene Gibbons, Melba Ann Simpson and Holly Vinson. For reservations phone 595-7456.

Nixon Attacks Red Oppression

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Richard M. Nixon said yesterday the West needs a "new approach to the whole problem of Eastern Europe" with the accent on easing the oppression of peoples under Communist rule.

The former vice president made the comment just before he flew to Paris ending the Eastern European and German part of his trip to Europe.

Bull Outlines Racing Sharing

HARRISBURG (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Leland H. Bull outlined yesterday the eligibility rules under which fairs and similar agriculture events can share in state harness racing funds.

Payments will be made from a special fund created by the 1961 harness racing bill which legalized pari-mutuel betting in the state, Bull said.

To qualify, the secretary continued, an annual fair must be "an event or events totaling no less than three days which contribute to the development of agriculture or agribusiness."

The 1961 harness law provides that money obtained from betting would be used first to pay the expenses of the harness racing commission.

Three-quarters of the remainder would go into the general fund while the balance would be available to the state fair fund.

'Spreads' On Prices

By William A. Doyle

Q. You cleared up a point that has long confused me when you explained that the published "bid" and "asked" prices for stocks traded in the over-the-counter market are only "approximate" — that the bid price is the price near which you would hope to sell stock and that the higher asked price is the price near which you would hope to buy stock.

Now, can you inform me why different stocks in the same price range have different "spreads" between bid and asked prices. For instance, I bid three stocks, all with bid prices of 34 — $34 a share. One has an asked price of 36; another an asked price of 37; the other an asked price of 38.

A. Let's get back to that important point that these quotations for stocks in the over-the-counter market (not traded on a stock exchange) are approximate. They do not represent actual trading transactions. Bid and asked quotations can (and often do) change from one minute to the next.

Frankly a spread of 34-38 in bid and asked quotations is awful big. Quotations such as that usually indicate a "thin" market in the stock — meaning that there are not very many shares available for buying or selling. Relatively few buy orders could send prices up. Relatively few sell orders could send prices down.

In such cases, the securities dealers "making markets" in the stocks may put out bid and asked quotations that give them some room in either direction.

Assuming that you are dealing with a reputable broker, he will execute your order at the best possible price.

Sometimes that may be in between the announced bid and asked prices.

But, if you're selling and he has a difficult time finding a buyer, it may be below the last bid price you saw. And, if you're buying, it may be above the last asked price.

Q. I decided to change the registration of some stock I own from my name alone to my name and my wife's name. I wrote to the big New York City Bank and that bank sent me the necessary papers and instructions and said that this little transaction would cost me $6.30.

I checked at the local bank and was told that they handle things such as this for their customers for free. It is not the $6.30 but a matter of principle with me. Is someone in New York trying to scalp me?

A. No. That big New York bank is not trying to lift your hair. Some banks will sometimes handle the necessary paperwork on things such as this for customers (especially good customers) for free. But most of the time a small service charge will be levied — say, about $2.50.

If you double-check this, I am sure you will find that is the case here. The rest of that $6.30 is in the form of transfer taxes, which must be paid when the registered ownership of stock is changed.

Q. We own some Prentice-Hall stock and have noticed that its price (on the American Stock Exchange) moves like a teeter-totter — up slightly for a day or two, then down slightly for a day or two.

Does this indicate that the stock has lost its potential for the future?

A. I would say no. And that is the general opinion on this stock. It is considered to have good growth potential for the long haul.

It appears that you have checked its price, only over short periods of time. It has had some mighty wide price swings (both up and down) as is often the case with growth stock. Right now its market value is more than 10 times what it was only seven years ago.

Doctors Say Hormones Make Skin Look Younger Safely

NEW YORK (Special)—A leading dermatologist and his assistants have conducted a "half-woman" test that proves conclusively estrogenic hormones make skin look younger, smooth dry-skin wrinkles, often fade "old-age" skin discolorations.

A preparation containing female hormones was applied to one side of the face and neck and to one hand of 50 middle-aged women. A similar formula containing no hormones was used on the other side. It was quickly apparent that the side treated with hormones looked better. At the end of the test in all but two cases, skin lines were definitely less noticeable, complexion was softer, smoother, fresher. There was no local irritation in any case; examination revealed absolutely no systemic effects. The hormones had beautified effectively and safely.

In an effort to speed up hormones' beautifying action, a trustworthy 50-year-old laboratory developed a fluid formula called HORMONEX Beauty Serum. This laboratory conducted a test on 15,000 women volunteers who were asked to use the formula for just twelve days on one side of the face and neck. An impressive percentage signified that good results were attained even in this short period.

HORMONEX Beauty Serum acts so rapidly because pure female hormones are dissolved in a combination of penetrating Sesame Oil and a patented, liquid Lanolin. Only 7 drops a day are required to treat face and neck.

If you would like to test HORMONEX Beauty Serum without risk, get a bottle at your favorite toiletry counter today, use it just twelve days. If the change is not astounding — if you are not completely satisfied, your dealer is authorized to refund purchase price without question. HORMONEX Beauty Serum is inexpensive to use. A 100-day supply costs only $3.50. Look younger quickly. See these dry-skin wrinkles smooth out, starting today! You may obtain HORMONEX Beauty Serum at:

China Denounces U. S.-India Pact

TOKYO (AP)—Amid reports that China is again massing troops on India's borders, Peking declared yesterday that the new U.S.-Indian air defense agreement menaces the peace of Asia.

India's collaboration with the United States is directed not only at China but at other nearby nations, particularly Pakistan, a Peking broadcast said.

The United States and India announced July 22 that India will get U.S. technical assistance and equipment and that the agreement provides for joint air defense exercises.

Permafrost Layer

RESOLUTE BAY, N.W.T. (AP)—A record depth of permafrost for the North American arctic, 1,620 feet, has been found on Melville Island, North West Territories, a Canadian arctic research expedition reports. Permafrost is the permanently frozen layer of soil and subsoil.

Rare Bird

Not many in captivity. Nearly extinct. He represents the lonely, vanishing breed of people who do not read newspapers. Hard to find people not reading newspapers? It's almost impossible. Because over 99 million people, in 9 out of every 10 households, read newspapers. Are they all birds of a feather? Nothing could be further from the truth. People of all tastes and persuasions, in every age group, educational level, income bracket find a private sanctuary each day in the daily newspaper they choose to call their own. The daily newspaper is highly selective and personal, yet completely universal. This is the special quality only the daily paper can deliver.
